- SYNOPSIS -
"CLEO'S EASY MARK"

Broadway Comedy

Produced by Morris Schrank
Featuring Eddie Barry

and

Directed by Ward Hayes
Vera Reynolds

-----

Father and mother have decided to give an amateur theatrical performance for the benefit of homeless boot-leggers and have selected Julius Ceasar for the vehicle.

Father is to play the part of Ceasar, while the son, played by Eddie Barry, is to be Mark Anthony and the maid, Vera Reynolds is chosen for the part of Cleopatra.

In the midst of rehearsals, while mother is directing, father is called away on business and mother is very much upset; fearing that the performance will not go off O.K. - also she has her troubles because Eddie Barry and Vera Reynolds are very much in love with each other and she doesn't approve. She catches them making love and starts to discharge the maid and this is overheard by the iceman, who is also in love with the maid. He enters and a fight ensues between Eddie and the iceman and mother sees the possibilities of impressing the iceman into services by playing the part of Julius Ceasar. During the rehearsals he and Eddie fight a duel and Eddie is knocked out; whereupon he dreams that he is the real Mark Anthony; Vera is Cleopatra and the iceman Julius Ceasar; only in Eddie's version they have all the modern appliances such as steam yachts, telephones, bicycles, telegrams, etc. Eddie and the iceman quarrel over Vera's affections and the iceman orders Eddie's execution. In attempting to escape he falls into a fountain and wakes up to find that it was all a dream and he and Vera are reunited.
